

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A search system for efficiently searching for IP information. When a user logs in to the search system, the 5 search system retrieves information, which a group to which a user belongs has privilege to access, to generate a session information database. The search system searches the session information database for information that matches a search query input by the user.